

3 CAMPTON BANK
ROBBERS PLEAD
GUILTY IN COURT

Judge Sentences
Trio To 30 Years
In Federal Prison

Three men were sentenced 30 years each in prison after pleading guilty to the Jan. 6 break-in at the Campton Farmers & Traders Bank and an earlier break-in at the National Guard Armory at Danville.

John Paul Scott, 30, Leitchfield, his brother, Don Roderick Scott, 28, Liberty, and Earl Franklin Morris, 35, Ponce City, Okla., were sentenced in U. S. District Court at Lexington last Thursday afternoon.

Judge H. Church Ford sentenced them to five years for conspiracy to burglarize the bank and 20 years for breaking into it. The sentences are to be served concurrently.

He also sentenced them to 10 years for stealing guns and ammunition from the Danville Armory, and five years on each of two counts of possessing machine guns without registering them. These sentences are to run concurrently after completion of the 20-year terms.

The attempted bank robbery was halted by a bank guard, who shot John Paul Scott in the mouth and right arm. Sheriff George Little also was wounded in both knees in the gun battle growing out of the break-in.

Don Scott was captured the next day. His brother and Morris were found two days after the break-in in a fodder shock. Morris' feet were frostbitten.

The three were neatly dressed for Thursday's hearing. Morris was in a wheel chair.

When Judge Ford asked them if they had anything to say before sentence was pronounced, Don Scott said he did not.

His brother said he realized "these charges are serious and I would appreciate it if you will be as lenient as possible."

No statement was made by the Scotts' attorney, H. M. Grigsby of Springfield.

Morris court-appointed attorney, Alvin Trigg, said Morris had played a "relatively passive role" throughout the "reign of terror" and shootings.

He said Morris did not participate in any of the shooting, that he "waited outside" and drove the car.

He also pointed out that Morris was on parole from a previous sentence and faced six years in prison for parole violation.

The Scotts also had prison records, according to the FBI, and had become acquainted with Morris while serving terms in Texas. During most of the hearing, Morris kept his head tilted forward as though he were trying to "nap."

Neither he nor the Scott brothers showed any change of expression when the sentences were pronounced.

WRITES OF FLOOD AID
Floyd Gabbard, of West Liberty, who is a telegraph operator for the L&N Railway at Jackson, has written an article for the forthcoming L&N magazine describing "Operation Rescue," the running of a diesel and two box cars from Jackson to Barwick to aid flood-stricken people in isolated communities. The train carried volunteers and food, clothing etc. for the flood victims. The phraseology from the article strikes us as noteworthy: "The mountain people are a hardy people but it was almost more than they could bear. I saw tears in their eyes, and it takes something to make a mountaineer cry."

Ruth Bros. Hot-Mix
Plant At Harold Is Damaged By Flood

The Kentucky Road Oiling Company's hot-mix plant at Harold, Floyd county, was considerably damaged in last week's flood in the Big Sandy area.

Jack Ruth of West Liberty, one of the owners, said that the flood covered the plant to between 10 and 17 feet, damaged eight motors and washed three large tanks off their foundations. The motors, he said, could be dried out and saved.

Two 15,000-gallon steel tanks were washed off their bases and one tank was washed about 1500 feet away. All can be salvaged and the loss will not be as high as first thought, Ruth said.

The firm brought other equipment to its shop in West Liberty when it closed down a surfacing job in Floyd last November, else a lot of the company's machinery may have been lost, he said.

MORE CLASSROOMS
PROPOSED IN ONE
REPORT TO GROUP

Educational problems like inadequate classrooms and transportation, poorly trained teachers and a too narrow range of curricula need to be corrected in order to improve education in our area, according to the report of the educational committee of the Morgan County Rural Development Program.

The committee suggested numbers of ways to correct these inadequacies in education. It suggested that everyone work for and support legislation to secure federal-state financing of a school building program, pay teachers better salaries and build up a desire in high school students to enter teaching as a profession, and secure more state appropriations for more roads.

The committee also recommended a revised curriculum to meet present needs of pupils by offering three general types of training—general, vocational and academic.

Members of the committee are Elmer Anderson and Earl W. Kinner. Their full report to the county committee follows—

Explosion Rips Home
At Morehead Vacated
By Mrgan Countians

A home in Morehead that had been vacated shortly before by a former Morgan county family was ripped apart Tuesday by a gas explosion.

Mrs. Opal Hammond and three children, formerly of West Liberty, had moved out of the house earlier in the day.

The explosion split the roof of the one-room frame home sending half of it into the front yard and half into the back yard. Every window in the house and one in a house next to it were blown out. There was no fire.

A fireman said natural gas accumulated in the attic and apparently was set off by a gas stove. The owner, Bill Bailey, was not available for an estimate of the loss.

Gen. Jesse Linsay, director of civil defense for Kentucky, was in charge of the meeting. He presented spokesmen for state and federal agencies, the Army and Red Cross, who explained what aid was available, who to get it from and how to get it.

Morgan was not hit by the flood but officials here and in neighboring counties like Elliott and Wolfe and Magoffin, which also were not damaged by the flood, were invited to attend.

TWO TRUCKS OF
FOOD, CLOTHING
SENT ON FRIDAY

Another Shipment
To Be Made From
Morgan Saturday

West Liberty and Morgan county, one of the few sections in Eastern Kentucky not hit by devastating floods last week, were quick to respond with and for their flood-stricken neighbors.

News of the full impact of the floods on the headquarters of the Big Sandy, the Kentucky and the Cumberland rivers was not made known immediately due to poor communications. But as soon as two Ashland attorneys, natives of Morgan, Ira Nickell and Herbert L. Rose, got through to West Liberty Thursday morning after being marooned in Pikeville since Tuesday, and told of the great suffering there, Morgan countians got busy.

And by the next evening two huge trucks were rolling up Sandy to Pikeville filled with food, clothing and bed clothes.

A 28-foot trailer-tractor of Blair Wholesale and a 16-foot truck of G. & H. Wholesale were filled Friday afternoon. They left at supper time, driven by Boyd Blair and Neil Hunley and arrived in Pikeville shortly after midnight.

Response of Morgan countians was immediate and most generous.

A group of citizens met with Walter Franklin, chairman of the Red Cross chapter, Thursday night and planned the campaign for articles and food needed by stricken people in the flooded area. Handbills, hurriedly printed to explain the need and the method of collecting, were distributed the next morning by Boy Scouts in West Liberty. Telephones were used to contact some rural communities.

The drive was sponsored by the Red Cross chapter here, assisted by volunteers, Kiwanians and businessmen. Also many women aided in various communities.

Volunteer teams commenced picking up gifts in the afternoon, and four hours later two large trucks were filled.

Communities of Ezel, Caney, Stacy Fork and Grassy Creek were notified in time to participate. Albert Dorsey led the drive at Ezel. But when James Elam and Elmer Anderson took an REA panel truck there, to get the contributed supplies, they had to phone back for a larger truck. A wholesale company truck had to be sent to get the large collection of food, clothing and bedding, much of it contributed by the Ezel school, and the rest by citizens.

Earl Reed brought in the supplies gathered in the Caney section.

Mrs. Hayden Ratliff and Mrs. Billie Jean Vest brought in the money and supplies collected at Stacy Fork. This included $71.50 in money as well as food and clothing.

Trucks coming back from Ezel picked up the Grassy Creek collection.

And in West Liberty, everybody who was contacted contributed something, one of the volunteers said. Many others brought in their gifts.

And many people went to stores and bought cases of food for the shipment going out. Cash sales at Blair Wholesale alone ran to $682.00. Other citizens bought food at May Grocery, G. & H. Wholesale, the Cut Rate Market and other retail stores. All the wholesalers and retail stores contributed liberally also. Some gave food, some mattresses, some bed clothes.

And townspeople were more than generous in giving clothing and food. Much of the clothing was almost new, one of the volunteers said. And many gave bed clothes. Others gave money.

By sundown, two trucks had been loaded. The semi-trailer contained 116 cases of food such as canned vegetables, canned milk, canned fruit, lard, flour, sugar, baby food, soap powder and bleach, and the like.

Among the larger contributions of cash were the City of West Liberty $100, Licking River Limestone Company $100, Gullett and Spencer Clinic $25. And many gifts were $5 and $10.

It is not possible to list all the donors. Many packages came in after the trucks had left.

Mr. Blair and Mr. Hunley, who drove the trucks into Pikeville, said the devastation was unbelievable. They unloaded the food at the Methodist church and the clothing and bed clothes at another relief center.

CARTER—

VIEW WRECKAGE IN HAZARD FLOOD

CARTER, Ky., Feb. 4—Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Lardieri and the writer visited Saturday the flood areas of Hazard. The scene that met our eyes was inconceivable. The National Guard was there directing traffic, so we were directed to take an upper street as Main street was closed to traffic. People seemed calm as they went about their work cleaning and shoveling mud out of their homes and business places.

A business woman told us that for three days the town had been without food, water, lights and telephone service. She said that for three days they hadn't washed their faces. The only place they had to eat was in a church where they were being fed by the Red Cross.

We saw one truck going through the street with a sign on it which read "Free Drinking Water." It sure was a pathetic sight. We were thrilled to see the magnificent work of the U.S. Army, the helicopters, planes and convoys of Army trucks, which were constantly coming in with food, mattresses, blankets and medical needs for the needy people.

One woman, bless her heart, told us she hoped we would never have to experience what they were going through.

The community was saddened here by the death of Aunt Lizzie Kemplin who died in a rest home in Dayton, Ohio, Thursday. Burial was here in the family cemetery with Potter Funeral Home in charge.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Bert Harper a son—Vernon Lee. This is their fifth child.

The writer is feeling better. Mrs. Volney McGuire spent last week in Lexington visiting her daughter, Mrs. Robert Gevedon.

William Ross of Cincinnati was home over the week end and conducted services at Kendrick Ridge Saturday night.

Leonard Robinson and family visited Harlan Robinson over the week end. The Robinsons live in Middletown, Ohio.

Roland Ferguson of Middletown was visiting relatives here Saturday.

MORGAN'S CAPABILITIES IN COOPERATION

Morgan countians were among the first to send aid to flood victims last week. And they did a quick job.

A day after the full extent of the suffering and damage was made known here, Morgan county had two vans of food, clothing and bedding enroute to Pikeville. The Ashland National Guard made its way to Pikeville Thursday morning, taking the first drinking water and food. The next night two van loads of necessities got there from Morgan county.

And much of the Morgan shipment consisted of cases of food, milk, etc. bought with cash from stores and wholesalers, donated by stores and wholesalers and gathered at homes and business places.

How did Morgan county do it?

Through cooperation aroused by human sympathy.

The method of gathering the gifts was planned Thursday night by a small group of citizens. Next morning the Boy Scouts delivered handbills to homes and business places. In the rural sections, telephones were used to tell people of the shipment going out.

Collecting the gifts started at noon—and within four hours two wholesale company vans were filled. They were rolling toward the flood-stricken area at supper time.

All done through CONCERTED ACTION and COOPERATION aroused by human sympathy.

But why do we have to have human suffering to arouse us to concerted action? Why not cooperation and concerted action in all endeavors that will help the general welfare?

Morgan County, we think, is the best county in the mountains. Its people are a hardy and honorable people, descended from fine Anglo-Saxon stock that came here from Virginia and the Carolinas shortly after the Revolution. Have we, their sons, forgotten the general welfare? Do we have to have human suffering to arouse us to concerted action?

No, we think not.

We have seen Morgan countians work as a unit; we have seen Morgan accomplish much. We have seen it build a school that the President's wife came to dedicate; we have seen it build playgrounds; we have seen it build a public swimming pool; we have seen its farmers make it truly "the Bluegrass County of the Mountains."

No, Morgan countians have not forgotten the general welfare, the common good. But, we may have gotten temporarily off the path—the path of cooperation, concerted action.

The experience of our people in sending quick help to stricken neighbors may make us realize our capabilities, may help get us back on the path of cooperation for general good.

Aside from helping flood-stricken people in Pikeville, the endeavor was a helpful experience for Morgan county.

THE LORD LOOKS AT THE HEART

Men naturally overemphasize the head and underemphasize the heart. We rejoice in knowing the intellectual. We are inclined to look at the mind and magnify mental achievement. The Lord looks at the heart. If a man's heart is not right, his thinking is not right. This does not mean that a sinner cannot work a problem in mathematics. He may discover some great scientific truth in a laboratory; but unless a man's heart is right, he is liable to use mathematics and science for destructive purposes. Before World War I the German people, who are naturally very fine people, reached a point where they were practically all mind worshipers. The evolutionary hypothesis, which boiled down simply means "the fit survive and the unfit die," dominated the thinking of the German people. They naturally concluded that since the fit survive and the unfit die, and since they were fit, they ought to kill everybody and take over the world. A simple and contrite heart God does not despise. A humble heart deflates the ego. We are so little, but it is wonderful how men can know they have passed from death unto life and they can know whom they have believed and they can have the assurance that all things in the universe work together for good to them that love God, to whom they are called according to His purpose.—Bob Jones University.

WILMER BROWNING

How small-farm operators may increase their incomes in 1957 will be discussed at a county-wide meeting of farm men and women at the Baptist church in West Liberty on Feb. 21 at 1:00 o'clock. County Agent Carl W. Sinclair announced this week.

Two speakers from the Agricultural Extension Service at the University of Kentucky will be Miss Elizabeth Helton, specialist in foods and nutrition, and Wilmer Browning, specialist in agricultural economics.

Problems relating to Morgan county will be given special attention.

MISS ELIZABETH HELTON

of fresher, better foods are supplied, will be explained by Miss Helton. She will suggest how to plan the family garden that will supply the amount of food needed to insure a good, healthy diet throughout the year. Ways of storing and preserving foods will also be discussed.

Mr. Browning will discuss types of enterprises suitable for small farms and how production may be increased on them during the coming year. He will also discuss important changes in Social Security for farmers.

He will suggest, also, how small-farm programs may be planned, allowing the farmer to work part-time off the farm, said Mr. Sinclair.

PROGRESS IN ROWAN

People of Morehead and Rowan county are proud of their new field house, which has been completed recently on the Morehead College campus. And they have reason to be proud. A handsome structure seating 5,500 people is not to be taken lightly. The building is CONCRETE evidence of a cooperative spirit that abounds in Rowan county; for without this attitude of togetherness such projects as a new gym, collecting enough money to send an entire band to the inauguration in Washington (collecting so much that actually the band will have $1,500 left and all expenses paid), or gathering truck after truck load of food and clothing and some $3,000 cash for flood relief on the Sandy—could not have been accomplished.

There have been other noteworthy improvements and successful civic projects in Rowan. These accomplishments could not be realized without everyone pitching in. Mrs. Legrand Jayne, lifelong resident of Morehead, put it this way: "Whatever Morehead wants, everyone works together and gets it." Credit was given W. E. Crutcher, publisher, for pushing these projects. Dr. and Mrs. Adron Doran for their contribution to the college and community, and others. For the bouquets did not stop there, but included dozens of people in Rowan county who put aside grievance and grudge and got together for the good of their county and community.

Farm Bureau Asks Corn Base Acreage

CHICAGO, Jan. 29—The American Farm Bureau Federation was on record today in support of a base acreage program for corn growers to replace present acreage allotments.

A base acreage plan embodying the Farm Bureau's proposals was introduced in Congress Friday by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen.

Federation President Chas. Shuman urged quick passage of the measure by Congress.

The base acreage plan calls for a percentage of cropland to be placed in the Soil Bank. It also would reduce corn price supports to $1.31 a bushel as compared with $1.36 under the present acreage allotment program.

CROCKETT, Ky., Feb. 4.—(By Fern George and Pauletta Hutcherson)—A much needed new large electric exhaust fan was installed in the school lunchroom Jan. 23. The school is very thankful to Supt. Jones and to the board of Education for this piece of new equipment.

Mrs. Arthur Hullette's fourth and fifth grades gave a program of foods eaten by the peoples of different countries. Claude Rowland's sixth grade room gave a summary of native forest trees in Kentucky. Miss Arlene Wheeler's seventh grade room gave oral reports of sixteen different countries of Europe.

FIRST CHURCH OF GOD
Sunday morning concluded the youth services in the church with Pat Murphy speaking on "How Christian Can Overcome" and Jimmie Williams presenting the theme "How Young Christian People Can Witness For Christ." Carolene Sheets served as chairwoman with Barbara Brown directing the singing.

Our cottage prayer meeting was in the home of Frank Sheets with good attendance.

Prayer meeting next Tuesday night will be in the home of Clayton Henry.

The Youth Fellowship will be going to the Central Youth meeting Thursday night at Owingsville.

We are all looking forward to the revival which begins Feb. 19 at 7 p.m. with Rev. and Mrs. Darryl C. Williamson from Canton, Ohio.

The attendance has increased in both Sunday school and preaching services the last few weeks. Our choir and special singing program really is something to hear every Sunday. So if you aren't attending church anywhere you are always welcome to worship with us.

Allen Goodpaster loads cases of food in the 28-foot semi-trailer being filled with food and clothing for disaster to Pikeville. Many people bought cases of food and milk at stores for the flood stricken people. Victor Black is shown at left.

"We got there," Blair said, "but trucks came in from Morehead while we were there, bringing other supplies."

"They told us if Morgan county ever need help, all you'll have to do is call on us," Hunley said. "But there were only three baby bottles in all we took from Morgan. They were grabbed quickly, and they told us they needed a lot more baby bottles," Blair said.

"Besides the new mattresses, there was one old used mattress among our gifts. One boy told us he was tickled to get it," Blair added.

The flood hit Pikeville Tuesday. The Ashland National Guard managed to get there early Thursday, bringing the first drinking water. Pikeville people had had since the flood hit.

Morehead was quick to respond. They sent truck loads after truck loads to stricken towns. People there remember the devastating flood that hit them in 1939. Louisiana and Ashland also were quick to send aid.

Dyers Dairy of West Liberty gave 100 gallons of fresh milk but it had to be pasteurized at Spring Grove Dairy, and went in a shipment from Morehead.

Another Load Ready
Realizing the continuing need of flood victims for help, a second drive for assistance was started in Morgan Sunday on a county-wide basis.

Preachers in churches in as many communities as could be reached were asked to announce the drive in their churches Sunday. Citizens were asked to bring contributions to their community stores where it had been arranged for wholesale trucks to collect the gifts and bring to West Liberty for shipment.

Trucks of wholesale firms collected the contributions from the various communities early this week. Many other people brought contributions to West Liberty in their own cars. The food and clothing and bed clothes was stored in the basement of the Christian church and in the Blair Wholesale Company's store.

Excel community sent another another truck load.

The Keeton Wholesale Company at Grassy Creek will haul the load to Pikeville Saturday in one of its large trucks. The load was ready by Wednesday but administrators of flood relief there told the Red Cross here it would be best to send it Saturday.

Much of the contributions consist of blankets, some mattresses, clothing, staple foods, especially baby food.

Everyone has been very generous, Walter Franklin said Wednesday.

Notes On The Flood
West Liberty on the headwaters of the Licking was one of a few towns in Eastern Kentucky not hit by floods last week. Floods hit on three sides—on the heads of Big Sandy, the Cumberland and the Kentucky rivers. But Licking was only moderately high. Had the rains hit a score or more miles north of the section between the Big Sandy and the Kentucky, West Liberty may have suffered a sad fate.

But the Licking has many broad bottoms along its course and floodwaters spread into them, thus lessening the impact of quick floods.

Much aid went through West Liberty to suffering people up Sandy and up the Kentucky. National Guard units went early. Then Army units and convoys from Ft. Knox. Then trailer-truck loads of supplies, and state highway equipment.

Even tank trucks came through to carry water to upper Big Sandy towns like Pikeville and Prestonsburg. And, West Liberty being the last town along the way not hit, some of the tank trucks stopped here to fill up with water from West Liberty's water system. One truck took on 10,000 gallons in West Liberty Saturday and sped on to Pikeville.

And fire trucks loaned by other cities, like Mt. Sterling, went through Saturday to help wash streets in mud-laden Pikeville, Prestonsburg and Paintsville.

Some of the Army units pulled out early this week and passed back through, enroute to Ft. Knox.

Many Morgan people have visited various places in the flood area to see how relatives fared and to offer what assistance they could.

Morgan and all nearby counties organized flood relief drives to provide assistance to flood victims.

West Liberty and Morehead were among the first towns to send aid. But then, all sections joined in. Van loads of supplies came from other parts of the state.

Had the floods hit at night instead of daytime there possibly would have been hundreds of deaths instead of the eight reported in Kentucky.

The Red Cross has appropriated half a million dollars for rehabilitation. The state and national governments have declared the flood-stricken counties in a disaster area, thus making available much long-range aid.

Extent of the flood damage can not yet be measured, but some have estimated it at over a billion dollars.

Some governmental agencies are urging mountaineers, to rebuild on higher ground. The disaster gives added strength to the government programs for flood control systems along the water courses long urged by Kentucky Senators and Congressmen.

TWO AREA MEN SEE PROGRESS MADE IN SOUTH

(Elliott County News)

John Rickett, associate county agent, and Coleman White, vocational agriculture teacher with the Rural Development Program, joined representatives of the State Rural Development committee at Lexington and other agencies of the Glasgow and Bowling Green Trade Area Jan. 7th and went to Gallatin and Dresden, Tennessee and Tupelo, Mississippi, to observe progress being made in these two states since they started the Rural Development program in 1946 and 1948.

Each state started work in one or two, never more than three, communities. They organized community clubs and enlarged their program by taking in other clubs as the community was ready to organize. These clubs were formed in any area where it was convenient for working together, and the clubs in town worked for the improvement of homes and home life.

Mr. Rickett and Mr. White said the improvement brought about by participation in this program could easily be seen by the passerby. The men said one could tell the minute he entered one of these communities and when he left.

They were much impressed by the cooperative spirit found in each community and efforts of all agencies, business people and sponsors to work together for the improvement of their communities, economically, socially and spiritually.

These delegates of Elliott came back greatly impressed and with high hopes and ambition for Elliott county's future.

Feb. 7—Youth Week ended on Feb. 3. The Christian Youth Fellowship was in charge of the worship service. Ernie O'Donnell of Hazel Green Academy brought to the young people a great message on the "High Calling."

A number of our young people enjoyed the two-day fellowship with the Morehead church. About 160 young people had gathered there for the two days. Mrs. J. R. Nevius, Mrs. Charlene Spencer and Mary Catherine Blevins were with our group.

During the church school hour Sunday morning, Mike Burton, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Burton, received the rites of baptism.

Miss Josephine McGuire returned from Lexington last Friday. While there she was presented with the Achievement Award for our church as one of the churches selected by the University of Kentucky and the Town and Country Church Fellowship.

We feel that to our present leadership, Rev. and Mrs. J. Ryan Nevius, should go the award, for all their untiring effort to serve the church and community.

The 1957 tree planting program in Morgan county got off to a fine start. Twenty-six farmers have placed orders for 90,650 trees to be planted on their farms this spring and several more have indicated their interest in the program. Farmers and number of trees purchased follow: Less Branham, 3000; Woodrow McClurg 750; Darrell M. Hall, 3000; Sam D. Cecil 1500; Noah Green 2500; Fredrick & May 1000; Wm. Hoskins 2,000 and Wentzel Brothers 25,000; Dillard Murphy 1000; Wyck Smith 3000; Pless Johnson 8000; Arnel Hopkins 2000; Ernest P. Lewis 20,000; N. E. Henry 1000; and Frank Gullett 1000; M. M. Rowland 1000; Billie Prater 1500; Olie Prater 1500; Henry Stovall 5000; Roy Rowland 1500; U. J. Perry 3000; Glen Johnson 500; Asa Kemplin 400; Boyd Anderson 1000; Arnold Keeton 1000; and Ed Holbrook 1000.

Boyd Blair of West Liberty plans to sow 15 acres of sericea and fescue this spring for pasture and hay. He said he wanted a fine quality hay that cured quickly, thus avoiding the hazard of rain after the hay was cut and also, a long lived legume that would stand the dry summer weather. A good soil builder and a good pasture legume, sericea fills his requirements. Cost of sericea seed this year is about half what it has been in the last two or three years. Bulletins and information on sericea seeding and management are available at the district office.

Jan. 28—While reading your poem, Mrs. Lella May Gambill of Middletown, Ohio, I recalled your mother's choice song as she worked, day in and day out:

"Amazing grace, how sweet the sound
That saved a wretch like me.
I once was lost but now I'm found Was blind but now I see."

'Twas grace that taught my heart to fear
And grace my fears relieved;
How precious did that grace appear
The hour I first believed."

Thank you, Miss Fern George of Elkfork. I think I saw every one at Martha church but don't know which one was you. We'll try again to meet, Lord willing.

CROCKETT SCHOOL—

U.S. AND BRITISH STUDENTS WRITE

Nadine Hutchinson, a seventh grader in Crockett school, Miss Arlene Wheeler teacher, wrote to a student in England Dec. 12. The letter she wrote and the reply are copied here—

Dear Bruce,
I am a girl in the seventh grade. I am 13 years old. I am going to tell you something about my country. Here are some sports we play in America—basketball, football, tennis, golf, volley ball and baseball.

My teacher is Miss Arlene Wheeler. She has told us many interesting things about your country. She met you on a boat trip on the Thames River from Greenwich to London. I would like to know more about your country. I would like for you to write and tell me some of your sports.

We have a lot of parks, beaches, canyons and mountains. The largest city in our country is New York. The second largest is Chicago, Illinois.

The capital of Kentucky is at Frankfort, Kentucky. We have 48 states in the United States. I have been in three states: Kentucky, Ohio and West Virginia.

Your American friend,
NADINE HUTCHINSON

Dear Nadene,
Thank you for your letter. My age is twelve and I live in the heart of London, and about a mile from Buckingham Palace where the Royal Family live. We have some interesting places in London, such as Trafalgar Square, The Tower of London, Westminster Abbey, St. Paul's Cathedral and St. Martin's in the Field, which is a beautiful church where the school I go to was founded in 1665. My school is called Archbishop Tennison's Grammar School, which is a first grade school. It overlooks the oval cricket ground where the test match is held against Australia every year. English sports are basketball, football, cricket, swimming, golf, lawn tennis, table tennis. In one day's time I will be going back to school after the Christmas holidays. Your letter as posted 12th December, and I received it on the 24th. We have some pretty parks here, but your country sounds beautiful with the canyons and mountains.

Street, smooth and sassy—that's Chevrolet all over. Above, you're looking at the Bel Air Sport Coupe.

Clings to the road like a stripe of paint!

The '57 Chevy can give lessons on taking curves and holding the road to just about any car going. Few cars at any price are so beautifully balanced and so smooth, sure and solid in action.

A car has to have a special kind of build and balance to keep curves under control. And nobody outdoes Chevrolet in that department! It "corners" with all the solid assurance of an honest-to-goodness sports car. Chevy doesn't throw its weight around on turns because it carries its pounds in the right places.

And if the road should turn upward, Chevy can take care of that nicely, too—with up to 245 h.p.*

Come on in and take a turn at the wheel of a new Chevrolet.

Broadcast Especially For Mothers Goes On Radio Over WMTG

Attention, All Housewives!

HEART TO HEART PROGRAM with Mrs. Ruth Stoltzfus

A program of inspiration for you in the midst of your everyday tasks

A new and different radio program for mothers and homemakers will be heard for the first time on radio station WMTG, Van-Cleve, Breathitt County, Ky., (730 on your dial) on January 26 at 10:30 Saturday morning.

This is the HEART TO HEART Program, a Christian radio broadcast, originating in Harrisonburg, Virginia, dedicated to the cause of building strong Christian homes. Mothers and homemakers find inspiration in their daily tasks as they tune in each week to this program especially for them.

Begun over one station by Mrs. Grant M. Stoltzfus in June 1950, the HEART TO HEART program is now in its seventh year and is currently aired over 25 stations in ten states and Puerto Rico.

Calling herself "Your Friend Ruth," Mrs. Stoltzfus, mother of five children, speaks in a conversational tone to thousands of mothers as they work in their homes. The main purpose of the program is to bring spiritual meaning to the everyday tasks of busy women. For, as Mrs. Stoltzfus says, "Man does not live by bread alone."

WMTG has been chosen as the outlet for the HEART TO HEART program in this area.

Elliott's Progress Told In Report to State Group

Elliott, the pilot county in the northeastern area of the Kentucky Rural Development Program, has made outstanding progress since initiating its program last November, and a comprehensive report of this progress was given the State Rural Development committee at a meeting in Lexington last Friday by John Vansant, delegate from Elliott on the area committee.

Mr. Vansant's report of the county's accomplishments to date follows—

Introduction

I am very glad at this time to present the Elliott county RDP report. As a pilot county under this program, we feel that the light is upon us and we are going to make every effort to make it successful. However, this program is like atomic energy in that we can see the various parts, but putting them in harmony is another matter. I believe though if we can gather the waste energy being used on gripes and stubbornness (what some people call independence), we can amass a force that will overcome any obstacle large or small. I think, cooperation—everyone pulling together in the same direction—will make Rural Development not just a fancy, but a reality.

First, I would like to give briefly a physical description of our county. Elliott county is located in Central Northeastern Kentucky; a county of the Ashland trade area. Our county is primarily an agricultural area, with some development of coal, crude oil and timber in the county.
There are 1,145 farms in the county, the average size is approximately 100 acres. Of 153-600 acres, 117,154 is farmland, 52,520 acres are in cropland and 74,664 acres are in woodland.

The topography of the county is relatively hilly, but much of this hill land is smooth enough for pasture production and crop rotation. We have some very good cropland along the streams, in the form of branch and creek bottom land. Practically the entire county is a watershed of the Little Sandy River and its tributaries.

The county is traversed by highways Ky-32 and Ky-7. Ky-32 extends to U.S. 60 at Morehead and to U.S. 23 at Louisa. This road runs in a east-west direction the entire length of the county. Ky-7 runs through Elliott county in approximately a north-south direction from US-60 at Grayson to US-460 at West Liberty. These thorough routes give us access to the entire county.
These routes are intersected by feeder roads which cover the entire county. Products both agricultural and mineral can be assembled at any point for processing.

We were first informed about the Rural Development Program in September. Mike Duff explained the program to a group of community leaders and immediate interest was displayed in the possibility of Elliott county becoming a pilot county in Rural Development. Two or three other meetings were held in the county to acquaint the people in the county with the responsibility of the program. It was decided to accept the program and cooperate to help raise the standard of living for the people of Elliott county, through the programs of improvements that would be carried out under the program.

On November 2nd an area meeting was held at Morehead.
At this meeting many state leaders discussed and explained their part in the program. Information was given on how to approach the program on a county basis.
Several people from the county attended.

Shortly after this meeting the county agencies and other interested citizens met and selected Nov. 23 as a date to organize the county. A list of interested people was made and letters were sent to each person to attend this meeting. Approximately 50 people attended this meeting. Forrest Esham explained the Rural Development Program and Mike Duff helped analyze our present problems. At this meeting it was decided that the county development committee would consist of two delegates from each community (based on school sub-districts) and a delegate from each county wide organization.
At this meeting too it was decided that a steering committee be appointed to work out the details for getting the delegates from each school district. The steering committee felt that a meeting should be held in each school to explain the program to the people and get each community to select two delegates to represent their community on the Elliott county Rural Development program committee. The steering committee appointed speaking teams to hold meetings in each school. Each team was to visit several schools to explain the program. A form letter was prepared and each school was contacted to make arrangements for the meeting. Two thousand letters were distributed by the school children to parents and also other people in the community who didn't have children in school.

We administrative personnel in the county superintendent's office made the contacts with the schools to set up the meetings.
Approximately 700 people attended these meetings, or about 15% of the entire population of the county.

On Dec. 17th the Elliott county Rural Development committee met at the high school gym, and 240 people attended this meeting.

Mike Duff presented the history of the program and helped visualize some of the things we might accomplish under this program.
Officers for the county committee were elected at this meeting. It was decided by the county committee that we would approach our work from four angles and a committee was formed for each.
The elected officers appointed a chairman and a vice chairman for each of our four committees.
These committees were: Agricultural, Industrial, Educational and Sociological. The committees met and prepared reports on what our problems were in each phase and suggestions were made toward their solution.

On January 7th the committee on Agriculture, Industry, Education and Sociological Improvement gave their reports. They were accepted by the county committee. Also at this meeting Dr.
Nesius, chairman of the State committee, gave a very interesting talk on the possibilities of the Rural Development Program. In the discussion on how to work on some sub-committee, seeking to solve one or more problems or problems were given an opportunity to select the problems they were interested in. Our next county committee meeting will be held on Feb. 11. We will work on various sub-committees at this time.

THINGS UNDERWAY:

Agricultural

(A) Livestock
1. POULTRY—Two plans have been proposed for the production of high quality market eggs. There seems to be some interest in both plans. They are workable plans for the financing of the entire operation.

1. Survey of our natural resources has been started, particularly our timber resources.

2. President Eisenhower has included in his budget to Congress an appropriation for survey of the Little Sandy River. We are hoping that this may lead to a dam that will furnish us a reservoir of water for industrial purposes.

In the Sandy Hook Community

(a) An industrial survey is underway in Sandy Hook, our county seat community. The Kentucky Economic Development Board has promised in making this survey and publishing its results for the purpose of acquainting industry with the potentials of this community.

(b) A water district is being created, the immediate goal being a community water supply in Sandy Hook.

(c) The possibility of natural gas for home and industrial consumption is being considered. Local interests are considering the drilling of wells and furnishing a supply. Also effort is being made to interest the Tennessee Gas Co. in the project. Part of the big inch line goes through Elliott county. (Much level land is available near Sandy Hook for location of industry.)

(d) A local lumberman says he can employ 30 men in making shipping pallets if a contract can be obtained for their sale. He has at present facilities for employment of 15 men.

(e) Hinton Hatchery—Tuxedo Feed Co. at Ashland.

(f) Redwine Farmers Supply—Southern States Coop at Sandy Hook.

Sheep

Richard Miller, sheep specialist for Agriculture Extension, says we are ideally situated and suited for commercial sheep production on a large or small basis. Many farmers are expressing interest in getting in the sheep business. No doubt our agricultural agencies will help with this project.

Cash Crops

1. Increase acreage of strawberries for commercial purposes; plan to have receiving station at Sandy Hook to help with marketing.

2. Form a sorghum cooperative to market molasses. This was done successfully in the 1930's on a small scale.

3. Have a few acre of turkish tobacco grown to learn cultural practices and suitability as a cash crop.

4. Produce seasonal fresh vegetables for the fresh market, keeping in mind the possibility of developing a truck gardening area for production of vegetables for fresh market and a canning industry.

(C) We are planning to hold meetings with farmers to explain the A.S.C. program and try to get at least 75% of the farmers to participate. The state A.S.C. committee has been asked to increase allotment from $25,000 to $75,000.

Educational

We believe the medium of education will play an important role in the development of our area, through both general and vocational education. Our school system is being given much of the responsibility of acquainting the people with the development program.

(1) Meetings have been held in every school in the county in an effort to reach and interest every citizen of the county. All teachers and administrative personnel have devoted their time toward educating the populace to the development program.

(2) There is a possibility that an educational survey will be made to help determine cause of drop-outs in the county. This survey should prove helpful in helping us keep our boys and girls in school.

Sociological

(1) A Rotary Club has been organized in the Sandy Hook community. This organization will likely sponsor many civic projects in the community and county.

(2) The Elliott County Woman's Club has begun work on a beautification program of homes in the county.

(3) Many county wide and church organizations have pledged their support of the program.

Many communities have expressed desire to form local committees to work on local problems. We think this is a good idea since it will make the program far-reaching by meeting the needs of the people more completely. Agents, personnel and school people have been asked to aid in conducting these meetings.
Efforts will be concentrated where interest is highest.

Our goal is to double the per capita income during a five-year period; actually we believe we can do better than that. We hope that through the Rural Development Program we can gain more healthful and wholesome home and community living for every citizen of Elliott
county.

We appreciate aid that has been given us; but we are more willing to accept favorable ideas that will enable us to make our own progress through our effort.

Credit For Farm Housing Explained

A line of credit now available from the Farmers Home Administration should help a good many farm owners in this area improve or build farm buildings, including houses, or provide water for household use, for themselves or their tenants.

That is the belief of Hager M.
Ray, chairman of the Farmers Home Administration committee in Morgan county, and Jesse R.
Johnson, chairman in Elliott.
Morgan and Elliott committees review application for all loans made by the Farmers Home Administration and helps the county supervisor adapt the agency's program to local farmers' needs.

The expression is "spendable dough," and it has more meaning to Army Reservists than any other group. This is the term given to the one-day's pay each Reservist gets for the two-weeks training he takes at his weekly drills, and the full pay he gets during two weeks of summer camp.

Army planners say that this is the money the citizen-soldiers usually do not compute with the monthly family budget. These plus dollars are over and above the civilian salaries. These dollars move fast and get into plenty of cash registers.

For the Army Reserve sergeant with about six years service this spending cash comes to more than $400 a year, and for a Reserve Army Captain with about ten years service this spendable dough comes to over $900 a year.

This once-a-week pay day in a small town with a company-size unit of about 100 men means more than $25,000 extra dollars a year circulating in the local economy.

Across the nation in some 5300 company-size units, 208,000 Army veterans now participating in the Reserve program for pay drew an estimated $95 million during the fiscal year 1936—and that's a lot of "spendable dough."

TRIP THRU STATE BY COUNTRY BOY FINDS FARM TREND

(By Wm. Johnstone For Kentucky Bankers Assn.)

Another series of meetings has just given me an opportunity to visit every section of the state and to talk to farmers and bankers from practically every county.
So this month Farm Facts will be a summary of impressions this "country boy" gained from a winter time trip, zig-zagging over Kentucky.

SATISFACTION. Everyone was pleased with the tobacco situation. There was not one word of complaint about the prices or the program. Bankers report good collections and higher deposits.

Some old timers recall when such prices would have resulted in increased acreage, over-production, flooded markets and ruinous prices. Such was the condition just fifty years ago when nightmares tried to enforce an acreage reduction. With the present program farmers can look with some assurance to stabilization of production and satisfactory prices another year.

A JOB AHEAD. In spite of the progress made in recent years one cannot help but feel, as he drives over Kentucky in winter that we have hardly scratched the surface of conservation problems. Either because of ignorance, lack of money, or just plain "don't care," there are still a lot of abuses of our land and forest resources. Nothing is more depressing than to drive through areas of eroded farm land with broom-sedge, sassafras and persimmons, dilapidated barns and unpainted homes at this season of the year nor is there anything more pleasing than to see the conversion of such areas to green pastures, neat homes and protected woodlands. Both of these scenes can be found in Kentucky today and it makes us realize that there is still a big unfinished job ahead.

ENCOURAGING. I was pleased to see the fine contribution Kentucky 31 fescue has made, and is still making, in providing cover and winter grazing throughout the state. It was particularly noticed by those who actively participate in the Armed Forces Reserve Program.

The expression is "spendable

ing to Army Reservists than any

Reservists' Pay Is Big Item In Town's Economy

Jesse Stuart Is Named 'Kentuckian of Year'

LOUISVILLE, Jan. 25—Jesse Hilton Stuart of Riverton, famous Kentucky author, poet and teacher, was named "Kentuckian of the Year" for 1936 by the Kentucky Press Association at its mid-winter meeting in the Brown Hotel this afternoon.

The presentation of the trophy and title was made to Mr. Stuart at the conclusion of the annual Friday luncheon. The award was started several years ago. Its winner is determined by secret ballot of the Kentucky newspapers, all of which are eligible to make nominations.

J. T. Norris, editor of the Ashland Daily Independent, presented Mr. Stuart and told of his many contributions to Kentucky life and letters which earned him the award. After sketching his career and naming many of his widely popular works dealing with his home state and her people, Norris referred to "The Year of My Rebirth," the author's best known work of 1936. He said:

"Jesse Stuart was struck by a heart attack while on a speaking engagement at Murray State College. With the supreme moral and physical courage that is his,
he grimly struggled back to health, and to fully productive living again."

This great experience he records masterfully for others in "The Year of My Rebirth." It has proved an inspiration and a con-

fort to thousands who, like him, have gone almost down the Valley of the Shadow and then fought back to normal life and learned much along the way?

The trophy was presented by Association President Charles E.
Adams of the Gallatin County News, Warsaw, Ky. Mr. Stuart was accompanied by Mrs. Stuart and their daughter, Jessica Jane, who were also presented at the luncheon meeting.

Volunteer Workers Rebuild Interior of Methodist Church

Methodist church. The project, which is sponsored by the young adult class of the Sunday school, has grown considerably since the original planning. The old pulpit and altar have all been torn away and rebuilt and new pews have been ordered.
